SOME LEGAL WAYS TO MIGRATE TO CANADA

SECTION A

EXPRESS ENTRY: The Express Entry system is a popular pathway for skilled workers to immigrate to Canada. It manages applications for three federal economic immigration programs: the Federal Skilled Worker programme, the Federal Skilled Trades programme, and the Canadian Experience Class.

PROVINCIAL NOMINEE PROGRAMMES (PNPs): Each province and territory in Canada has its own PNP, which allows them to nominate individuals with the skills and qualifications they need for their local labor markets.

STUDY PERMITS: International students can obtain study permits to pursue education in Canada. By enrolling in a designated learning institution and meeting specific requirements, students can study full-time and, in some cases, work part-time during their studies

SECTION C

CANADIAN EXPERIENCE CLASS: The Canadian Experience Class is a category within the Express Entry system that targets individuals who have gained skilled work experience in Canada.

START-UP VISA PROGRAMME: The Start-up Visa programme is designed for entrepreneurs who have a business idea and have received support from a designated Canadian organization. Successful applicants can obtain permanent residency by establishing their business in Canada.

WHAT DOES THE CANADIAN EDUCATIONAL SYSTEM LOOK LIKE?

The Canadian education system is known for its high quality and internationally recognized standards.

We would focus on the post-secondary education. At the post-secondary level, there are three main types of credentials:

- Certificates and Diplomas: These programmes are typically shorter in duration and provide focused training in specific areas. They are offered by colleges and technical institutes and are geared towards practical skills and immediate employment.
- Bachelor's Degrees: Undergraduate programmes at universities generally take three to four years to complete. They offer a comprehensive education in various disciplines and often require students to choose a major or specialization.
- Master's and Doctoral Degrees: These advanced degrees are available at the graduate level. Master's programmes typically require one to two years of study and involve coursework and research. Doctoral programmes, also known as Ph.D. programmes, are research-intensive and usually take several years to complete.
- Difference between a one-year course and a two-year course as they concern PR and post-study.

WHAT SHOULD YOU BE LOOKING AT WHEN IT COMES TO STUDY?

If you are considering pursuing an undergraduate programme or any programme in Canada after previously obtaining either a BSc or an HND, there are several factors to consider:

Addressing study gaps: You will need to provide an explanation for any periods of time when you were not engaged in formal education. If you claim to have been working or involved in business activities during those years, you must be able to provide substantial evidence to support your claims.

Documentation for future reference: Concealing your previous academic qualifications, such as a BSc or an HND, during your application process could have long-term consequences. Canada has the ability to uncover misrepresentations in applications even years later, which can lead to unfavorable outcomes. Dealing with the government in such cases is highly undesirable.

Potential CV enhancement: If you choose to declare your previous qualifications and they are recognized, it could positively impact your curriculum vitae (CV) if your application is

WHAT SHOULD YOU BE LOOKING AT WHEN IT COMES TO STUDY?

Sufficient funds: It is crucial to demonstrate a reliable source of income and financial capability to cover your expenses throughout your stay in Canada. The purpose is to show that you can fully focus on your studies without the need to engage in employment. Undergoing a four-year programme in a foreign country can be challenging, and it is not advisable to be overly eager if there are other viable and better alternatives. Keep in mind that even with sufficient funds, your application could still be rejected, whether for demonstration purposes or other reasons.

Statement of Purpose (SOP): Your SOP must be compelling enough to persuade visa officers of your intentions and plans. However, even with a remarkable SOP, there is still a possibility of rejection if they perceive a lack of progress or a visit-oriented purpose.

Age consideration: While age is not necessarily a barrier, it is important to be realistic. Admission to a programme may be relatively straightforward, but the primary challenge lies in impressing the visa officers, as previously mentioned.

Three Ps – Purpose of study – Proof of funds – Proof of home ties
